Brush Up on Product Quality – ISO 22716 Good Manufacturing Practices for Cosmetics

SIRIM

The ISO 22716 Good Manufacturing Practices for Cosmetics is designed to help the cosmetics industry maintain quality throughout its production process. It is the benchmark for best practices in the beauty industry; hence compliance will enhance your products' marketability.

The standard outlines requirements for a quality management system that covers elements and tools to improve your business, encouraging quality, traceability and accountability throughout your cosmetics supply chain.
