Safeguard the Chain of Business with Compliance

It is more imperative than ever for organisations to ensure their compliance with the myriad of regulatory and industry needs and expectations. Failure to comply with any applicable regulations could result in dire consequences for any organisation, as well as irreversibly damage their reputation.

Every healthy business needs to have a compliance management system (CMS) that will ensure processes in the organisation chain complies with the required regulations, laws, code of conduct as well as industry standards. However, the question which needs to be asked is, “How do you know if your CMS meets the mark?”

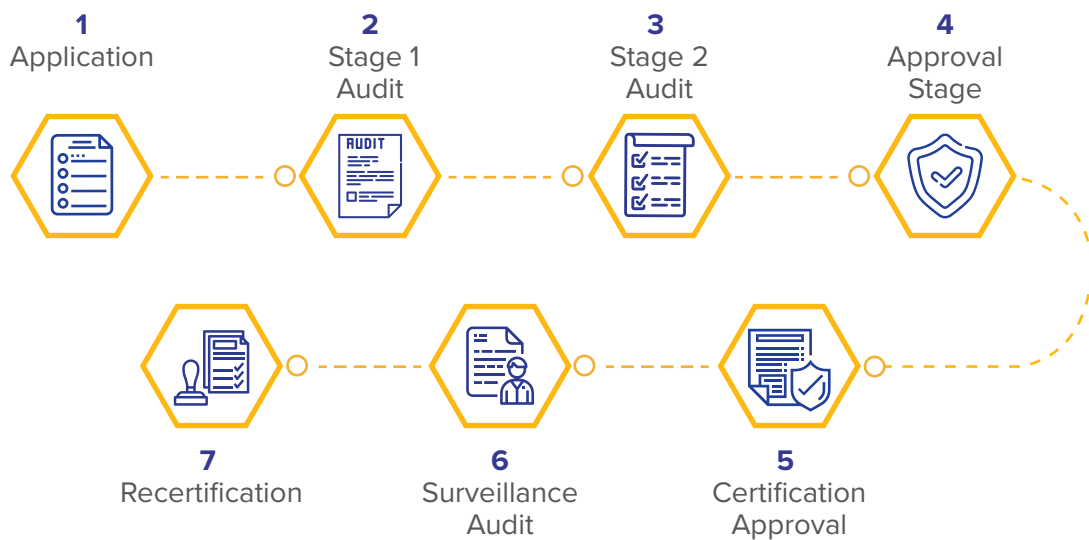

The answer? By getting ISO 37301:2021 certification. Introduced to replace the previous guideline - ISO 19600 Compliance Management Systems, ISO 37301:2021 is more rigorous and prescriptive than its predecessor and lays down the requirements for an effective CMS.

Whether your organisation is large, medium, or small, operating in the public, private or even the non-profit sector, all are applicable and encouraged to adopt this new standard. Because compliance brings about excellence and excellence creates trust.
