

IRONMONGERY

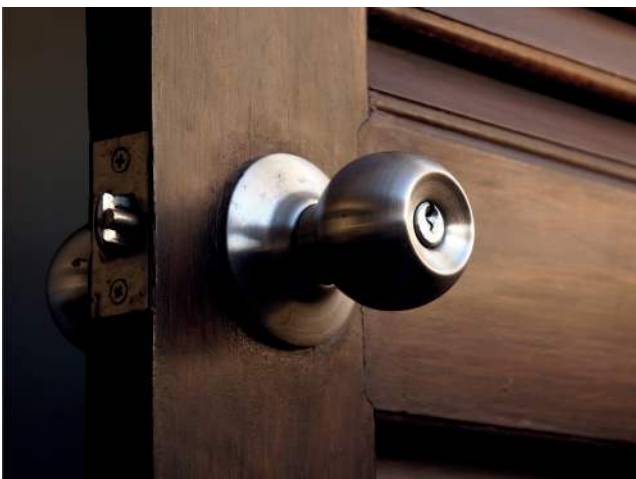

TESTING

Ensure the Integrity of Your Architectural Hardware

Iron out doubts about the quality of your ironmongeries. Assure customers that your products are secure, sturdy and functional. SIRIM QAS is the only Conformity Assessment Body in Malaysia that offers testing for all the different types of door hardware such as knobs, handles, closers, hinges and locks. Position your company as a reliable supplier and open “doors” to new business opportunities.

Driving Quality in Door Hardware

Safety in a premise starts with good quality architectural hardware. These refer to ironmongery – products made from metals like iron, steel, aluminum and brass – such as door handles, locks, closers, knobs and hinges. In recent years, we are also seeing the advent of electromechanical locks which provide added convenience and security.

SIRIM QAS can help manufacturers and suppliers enhance consumer confidence in their products. Our accredited laboratories are equipped with first-class facilities to conduct testing on all the different types of door hardware. These tests evaluate the functionality, quality, security and durability of these products based on international standards.
